At a recent special meeting of Eureka Grange, held at Grange Hall in Chillum, two car loads of potatoes were ordered from Maine for the spring planting of the gardeners in the neighborhood of Chillum. The project of the grange purchasing the ingredients for potato fertilizers, the members to mix the same, to be used on their potato crops next spring, was also discussed. After the regular business was transacted interesting and instructive experiences were related.

Mrs. Reynolds of Massachusetts, a repation Society, addressed the pupils of the Chillum public school a few evenings since on the subject of "Kindness to Animals." There was a large attendance at the meeting of Falls Church Lodge, No. 11, of Odd Fellows last night, the special feature of the meeting being the ending of the contest on perfection in the unwritten work of the order, which for the past two months has engaged the attention of the members. Past Grand Master D. R. Stansbury and Past Grands W. D. Zimmerman of Sarepta Lodge and W. E. Latham of Potomac Lodge of Alexandria were present by invitation and acted as judges. There was a hitch in the arrangements for the work, however, and but one team appeared on the floor, that of Past Grand G. A. Brunner, whose eight men won complimen-tary remarks from the judges for the manner of rendering the work. Mr. T. S. Luck-ett won the first prize, a splendid charm, which was presented by Past Grand Master Stansbury in an appropriate address. Mr. W. H. Veitch was awarded the second prize, a handsome Odd Fellows' pin. Seven applications for membership were received. A. Doolittle of Brookland Lodge, D. C., W. J. The decree, which was filed in the clerk's office yesterday, dewas filed in the clerk's office yesterday, declares the title of the complainant perfect and perpetually enjoins the defendants from asserting any title to the land in ques-tion. Considerable complaint is heard among the dairymen of the county at the great reduction in the demand for milk by the dealers in Washington, and some say that if this state of affairs continues much longer they will have to dispose of their stock and abandon the business. Local Orchestra to Aid the Choral Society-Mr. Morsell's Coming Musicale-Notes.

It has been definitely determined by the board of directors of the Choral Society, after thorough discussion, that it would be inadvisable to hold the concert advertised for March 5 in the place originally intended-Convention Hall. Although this auditorium is the largest in the city, the experience at the Messiah concert determined the directors not to risk the possibility of another freeze out. Confronting the board of managers was the serious problem of providing a convenient hall of suitable size, so that the large number of patrons of the society and the public generally could be accommodated comfortably and without rendering necessary any increase in the prevailing low prices for seats in order to meet the heavy expenses for the orchestra and soloists, as undoubtedly would be the case if only a small audience was provided for. A solution has been reached, eminently satisfactory to the society, as well as to its patrons. Through the liberality of the trustees of the Congregational Church the society is to enjoy the use of that building for the production of the Redemption two nights, March 5 and 6, without charge for rent. The suitability of this church edifice for concert purposes is well known, and for an additional advantage the society will have as an aid something which it has long desired-a fine pipe organ. By giving the oratorio on two successive evenings it is thought that fully as many persons, and even more, can be accommodated, as would have been the case had the original plan of securing Convention Hall been adhered

Although all the soloists have not been determined upon, the following is a reasonably correct list of the cast: On the first evening, Misses Mary Helen Howe, Blanche Mattingly, Mamie Donnelly, May L. Corby and Mrs. E. G. Farrell will sing the soprano roles; Misses Blanche L. Rueckert, M. L. Maddern and Charlotte Andrus, the ecntralto; Messrs, William D. McFarland, W. J. Caulfield and Charles L. M. Skerrett will sing the tenor parts, and the basses will include Messrs. Bernard A. Ryan, H. M. Paul and Charles F. Roberts. Mrs. Kitty Thompson Berry, Mrs. Anna Craig Hills, Mrs W. E. Parson, Mrs. Jen-nie B. Brown and Misses Mary A. McKee and Mabel J. Colby, sopranos; Misses Em-ma Brock and H. M. Kastner, altos; Prof. T. Williams Pearman and Messrs. Perry B. Turpin and Charles L. M. Skerrett, tenors, and Messrs. Frank P. Reeside, Joseph S. Thomas, N. B. Fugitt and Eugene E.

ond night. It is likely also that the accompaniments to Gound's beautiful music will be played by an orchestra of Washington musicians. The Choral Society has long it could rely, and some of those prominent in its affairs have been for some time working to accomplish that desirable end. It was known that there was a sufficient number of competent musicians in this city, but the difficulty was to assemble them and get them into proper training. That, it is believed, has now been over-come, and the result will be the formation of a symphony orchestra in this city that it is safe to predict will eventually prove equal to, if not superior to, many of the pretentious organizations that exist else-

Mr. Herndon Morsell's musicale, which will be held in the Church of Our Father next Wednesday evening, promises to be an interesting event. Mr. Morsell has arranged a program that is unusually at-tractive. Among the soloists will be Mrs. H. Goldsborough Goddard, Miss Florence Smith, Miss Blanche Mattingly, Messrs. B. A. Ryan, Chas. S. Richards, Howard O. Cook, Chas. W. Moore, Chas. F. Hall, Will Mooney, S. J. Kubel, F. W. Clements and H. L. Murdock. There will be two quartets, composed of Mrs. Smith, Miss Moore, Messrs. Morsell and Hall, and Mr. Morsell will sing a duet with Miss Mattingly. Those who will preside at the piano are for a concert which will be given some time in March. Mr. Lent has some excellent material in this body, and he is getting some good work out of it. He predicts that this orchestra, although youthful will surprise its friends when it shall appear bewill soon come to Washington in company with Stavenhogen, the eminent planist. Gerardy, when only five years old, began the study of music, and at seven years of age became the pupil of the excellent vio-lencellist, Richard Bellman. The intelligence of the boy, and his steady progress and development, soon became remarkable. At hardly eight and a half years of age he won the second prize for progress in his art, and at eleven and a half years of age the first prize medal was voted to him by acclamation. Jean made his first public appearance in Liege, in 1888. Directly after, he appeared at Spa, Lille, Aix-la-Chappelle, and finally at Antwerp, where, for the benefit of the victims of the cat-astrophe at Austerwell, he played the trio of Rubinstein with Ignatz, Paderewski and Eugene Ysaye. The same year he made his first appearance in England and cre-ated a furore. When only thirteen years of age he played with the Vienna Philhar-monic Orchestra, of which Hans Richter is the conductor. He astonished the music-loving people of Austria's capital, but his greatest success was in Berlin and Dresden. The players of Columbian University will repeat the opera of "Dorothy" at the Grand Opera House on the 19th instant, There have been a considerable number of changes in the business, and the young gentlemen are now much more easy in their parts than at the first performance. It is expected that the opera will be much better sung and acted than before, although the first effort was highly commendable There is a great deal of talent among the players, and they will demonstrate at the coming representation that they are fully equal to the older organizations from other cities that have visited this city and been received with favor. The cast will be nearly the same as before. Rehearsals are in active progress and the director is satisfied that every anticipation will be realized. Miss Frances Burkhart, who has become favorably known in Capitol Hill musical circles, contemplates going into opera professionally, and with every prospect for success. Miss Burkhart has been a diffeent student for the past four years, and is now unusually energetic preparing for her debut, which is booked to occur in March next with the "Princess Bennie" company. Prof. J. P. Montgomery, who possesses a well-trained tenor voice, will also try conclusions with the same company. The friends of the aspirants mentioned entertain no fears as to their success.

A new local musical organization that is being especially patronized by society will make its initial bow in a semi-public way on the evening of February 15. It is the Rubinstein Club, of which the general public has as yet heard but little. It was organized early in the fall, and numbers about thirty members, all ladies, many of them among the leading vocalists of the city. During the past three months these ladies have been busily engaged, under the direction of Prof. N. Du Shane Clowof choral work, and a genuine treat is said to be in store for those who will be able to secure cards for their coming public rehearsal, to be held in the ball room of the Cairo. Only 250 tickets will be issued, and most of these have already been subscribed for. Among the members of the organization are: Mrs. I. M. Bittinger, president; Mrs. Clarence B. Rheem, vice president; Miss Blanche Yewell, secretary; Miss Grace Lewis, treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Parson, Mrs. Dr. Gardner, Miss Blanche Mattingly, Mrs. Kate Scott-Brooks, Miss Marie Macnichol. IN THE CHURCHES

At the meeting of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association last Monday at the Church of the Covenant Rev. Dr. Teunis S. Hamlin was to have given an account of the Passion Play of Ober-Ammergau, but instead delivered an address on "The Effect of Early Environment." The doctor gave the history of many of the great men of the nation, and then showed how the early influences brought to bear upon them in early life affected their whole career. The lecture was so much enjoyed, and is of so instructive a nature, that the association has decided that it ought to be repeated before a large audience and should be printed. Revs. Geo. O. Little and Adolos Allen were appointed a committee to look after the matter and to confer with the Epworth League and Christian Endeavor Society for a joint mass meeting to hear the address.

The congregation of Wesley Chapel have been enjoying a series of sermons on the times and have already listened to Bishop Hurst, Dr. Samuel L. Beiler and Rev. Dr. Byron Sunderland. There are two more sermons in this series, one of which will be delivered by Dr. A. H. Ames, super-intendent of the Deaconess Home. The reading room in the new parish hall of Grace P. E. The arrangements for the meetings are in charge of Mrs. G. H. La Fetra of the W.

A letter was received a week or so ago in this city from Rev. Dr.T. Dr. Easton, however, has no ntention of leaving his congregation. A young men's Bible class has been or ganized at Trinity P. E. Church, and will meet every Sabbath morning in the new parish hall, under the direction of Col. Lisle. To keep pace with other parish improvements, plans for reviving the defunct church paper are under way. Friday evening, the 25th, a delightful social was given at the Assembly Presbyterian Church, and a large audience was present. The program included a number by the High School Banjo Club; a song, "Autumn Leaves," by Miss Mary Little, and an exhibition by F. T. Chapman. At the recent business meeting of Trinity M. E. Church, Rev. M. F. B. Rice, pastor, the following stewards and trustees elected: Messrs, Stahl, Cook, Dunn, Belt Dove, W. H. Bohannon, Dixon, C. Bohannon, Moffatt, Pritchett, Clifford, Sniffin, Trazzare, Harrison, R. E. Cook, Otterback, Chapin, Palmer, Webb, Hancock, Beck and Espey. The treasurer's report showed the finances of the church in an excellent condition, and the corner stone of the new edifice will probably be laid inte in the spring.

A commit-tee of the Congregational Church Extension Association has approved the applica-tion of the Mt.
